11 - What do you like best about this course?

- The professor taught very interesting material that related to the field. Highly recommend the professor again!
- The instructor created their own syllabus and curriculum. The instructor taught tangible skills that will be used in everyday life as a social work professional. The instructor made special effort to marry the interests of macro and micro social workers.
- I like that the professor was passionate, energetic, and knowledgeable. He generated lots of interest in the subjects and it was very refreshing to actually, for once, have a challenging professor in the social work program. My experience with the entire program has been so disappointing, but I'm glad I got to end it on a good note with professor Greenagel. The school of social work needs more professors like this! I actually enjoyed getting grades back, as not everyone was handed an 'A', as is the case in every other social work class. He was also very likable, humorous, and connected well with the students.
- Professor Greenagel's teaching style, very very unique. You cannot be bored in this class.
- He taught us things we could use and forced us to be better writers.
- The information was really helpful for students transitioning into the workforce.
- The instructor prepared us for our future by informing us about supervision and tests that we will need to take along our journey. Best course I have taken at RU!
- This was the best class I ever took in my college career.

12 - If you were teaching this course, what would you do differently?

- Nothing
- Get rid of TA and provide more critiques of papers. Remove second reflection paper assignment.
- The course was taught perfectly! I wish the course was longer and that this professor was able to teach other courses within the program! The only thing I would have liked is if he were able to grade all of our assignments because I feel like getting an 'A' from him would have made me feel more like I earned it.
- maybe less work.....I understand this is college, but too many readings, journals, book reviews, letter to the editor, presentations etc, its stressful because I am not just taking this course. I couldnt really keep up with all the readings and assignments. One thing I didnt like was the way you graded us on our midterm. That was unfair in my opinion, at least give credit for having half or almost the whole answer. Other than that, you were great!
- Add more time to talk about lcsw process rather than Rostock subjects
- I would make the presentations 3-4 minutes. There were WAY too many people and took up more time than ideal.
- Absolutely nothing...Professor Greenagel is the best professor I had at Rutgers.

13 - In what ways, if any, has this course or the instructor encouraged your intellectual growth and progress?

- Taught great information, the professor was knowledgeable about information that directly applies to the field. He made it interesting and was very informative.
- This course was THE ONLY course at Rutgers School of Social Work that challenged me, not because of the curriculum but because of the instructor. I- someone who refused to believe that micro work could be my passion- have developed a deep interest in micro work and have changed the concentration of my graduate studies due to the tangible clinical skills this professor taught. I learned various ways of building rapport with my clients- through office decorations, and fine tuning personal interests as well as the importance of self-care and defining who I am as a person. I've learned the importance of seeking help for myself when needed as well as the importance of a supervisor. I learned ways to gauge how good a supervisor or potential place of employment is at teaching new social workers. I have increased my writing ability and have learned more about drug abuse and the criminal justice system than I have in any other classes. The journals were not only useful in self-exploration but also in answering questions that will be asked in job interviews. From this class alone, i feel more prepared to enter the workforce than ever before. EVERY CLASS NEEDS TO PROVIDE THIS FEELING FOR ITS STUDENTS. This instructor MUST BE the lead instructor for this course.
- Unfortunately the entire social work program at Rutgers has discouraged me to get my master's degree and pursue work in the social work field, as I feel I have learned nothing and had a terrible overall experience. Professor Greenagel's class has been my only positive experience here at Rutgers and I was able to learn more general work-related things to help me when I apply for jobs. He was also able to give great advice to his class about life, which I will take with me.
- Success is measurable. Professor greenagel can measure his successes in numerous ways, that is what makes him an incredible professor
- In every way. I love the course and I learned so much. More than any other class
- He inspired us to strive to be better students, professionals, and well rounded people.
- The instructor genuinely enjoyed his time with us. I could see by day 1 that teaching is his passion. The courses in the SW program needs some serious saving and Greenagel did his best at teaching us the most he could in one semester. I believe every student should take a class as Greenagel's.

14 - Other comments or suggestions:

- N/A
- EVERY social work class needs to be run as this one; challenge the students more. Pushing students to do more allows them to find themselves and learn their place in the world. The whole SSW must adopt this ideology is they wish to create the best social workers in the world.
- Professor Greenagel should have a higher position within the school of social work. He needs to work with others to help improve this program before it gets any worse. It's been such a waste of time and money and I feel like this professor gets it and has been real with us about this from day one. He should be involved in updating the curriculum and the hiring process of other professors who give this program a bad name. At the very least, he deserves a raise! Thank you for an unforgettable semester!
- Professor Greenagel, you have a unique teaching style. You are extremely funny. You are really the best professor from the School of Social Work!
- Use his syllabus . It's a lot of work, but I feel more prepared as a social worker and what to do in the field
- He was a great professor. He introduces books that made an impact and will influence the work I do in the future.
- Thank you Professor Greenagel for teaching me all I know. I hope that you can teach in the masters level.
