

Frank L. Greenagel II, MPAP, MSW, LCSW, LCADC, ICADC, CASAC, ACSW, CJC, CCS

Nationally cited clinician, educator and policy advisor specializing in addiction, recovery systems, higher education, law enforcement counseling and Veterans' mental health.

Selected National & Major Media

- The New York Times — Collegiate recovery housing and programming at Rutgers University
- The Wall Street Journal — Risks and failures in for-profit addiction treatment
- Forbes — Critique of opioid policy and gubernatorial leadership
- USA Today / USA Today Network — Recovery, higher education and military service
- MSNBC — Police response to addiction and public health framing

Regional & Policy Journalism

- The Star-Ledger — Opioid crisis, COVID-19 front-page interview and Veterans Day op-ed
- The Record / NorthJersey.com — NJ Heroin & Opiate Task Force (Pulitzer finalist series)
- Philadelphia Inquirer — Addiction and treatment systems
- NJ Spotlight — Public health and state policy analysis

Radio & Public Media

- WNYC – The Brian Lehrer Show (multiple appearances)
- WOR Radio
- NJ 101.5

Trade & Professional Media

- Addiction Professional — Collegiate recovery, ethics, kratom, gaming disorder, grief and systems reform

Core Expertise Areas

- Addiction and recovery systems
- Higher education and collegiate recovery
- Law enforcement training, counseling and critical incident management
- Veterans, trauma and moral injury
- Grief and suicide training and counseling
- Clinical ethics, supervision and documentation

Available for media commentary, keynote speaking, professional training and government or institutional consulting.